[From The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.] SHE TO WHOM WE OWE "THE HOUSEHOLD OF BOUVERIE," Is not a sensation anthoress, but a

PROFOUND STUDENT OF HUMAN NATURE; She hears a value crying unto h:r-Write! and that, in obeying the impulse, she does so from high motives, with noble thoughts to express, with true doct ines to advocate, believing that she has a mission to fuffil, and devoting all her energies to the task.

The style of the novel is dramatic, but not exaggrated. Its English is pure and not disfigured by affectations or attempts at novel phras-ology. Its personages speak accord-ing to the passions which move them, but they always speak naturally. The remance of every-day life can be pictured without an as mixture of the grotesque or the turgid in the coloring, AND MOST SUCCESSFULLY done-by the hand that has given us "The Household THE HOUSEHOLD OF BOUVERIE:

"It spite of the modest and, to most readers, perhaps unpromising tit of this volume, it will be found to bear the impress of a vigorous and exiginal in ind. and to contain a fund of extrest thought profound teching, and cloquent expression. The tiples mostly relete to the greet practical interests of life, the application of the highest principle to daily effairs and the influence of Christianity in politics, business, education, and the general relations of society. With a strong faith in the vitality of justice, Mr. Green conleads strenuously against every form of oppression, insisting on the eract adjustment of social dati sby the standard of ideal right. His powerful reasoning is always accompanied with novel and suggestive illustrations, showing no less felicity of strenent than showed; yof conviction. No one can persee the volume without respecting the zeal and integrity of the author, and receiving a new impression of the worth of the principlest, which his labors have been devoted."—[N. Y. TIMOTHY TITCOMB'S NEW WORK.

All American Story. By Dr. J. G. Holland, author of "Tit-comb's Letters to the Young," "Bitter-Sweet," &c., in 1 vol., 12mo., 4:0 pages. $1.25.

This new book, from the pen of Dr. Holland is a story of modern American Life, racy and entertaining; but, like all his books, written for a porpose beyond and above the assument of the reader. The life and incidents are drawn to about equal proportions from the city and the country—the commercial metropolis and a New Haupshire whage. The characters are numerous, the action vivacious and the lesson patent—the lesson that a public curver cannot seriefly the heart of a true woman, and test a woman's ministry in the daily offices and distinct of borne life is the best not only for her development, but for the development of all that is best in man.
